

Leda Turai - Speaker

Biography

Leda Turai has 20 years of international work experience in profit and non-profit organizations and academic settings. In various leadership and coaching roles, she has supported numerous companies in implementing important changes and achieving sustainable business results. Currently, she is a lecturer at ISM Executive School MBA program, a leadership Development partner and owner at L-CON Global, partner at the Management Institute of Finland, trainer at Coaching Development (London) and PEMI (China).

Leda Turai has worked in the field of human development, organisational development and communication since 1997 in several countries across different generations and cultures in 5 languages. She has conducted research in the field of human resource development and corporate coaching.

Speech: The interaction of multiple languages and multiple identities in coaching

The presentation will address: How is the brain structured and organized among multiple languages in a coaching session and how are the thinking and the thinker impacted? What happens to the identity? Does a multilingual person have one or more identities? Which identity should we coach? How is the efficiency of coaching and change impacted, when the client is being coached in a second language? What is enabled or disabled in a coach, who coaches in multiple languages?